

NO ESCAPE FROM FILING RETURNS FOR INCOME TAX

All Persons Who Receive Net Income Above $20 Must File Income Returns.

Every citizen of the United States is subject to the provisions of the income tax law. He may live in this country or he may live abroad, possessing no property within the United States. Nevertheless, he must file a return if single and his net income for 1921 was $1,000 or more or his gross income $5,000 or more, or if married and his net income was $2,000 or more or his gross income was $5,000 or more. Divorcees or persons separated from husband or wife by mutual agreement are classed as single persons.

The same obligation to file a return and pay the tax rests on a resident alien, although his entire income may be derived from sources without the United States.

While forms were sent to persons who last year filed returns, failure to receive a form does not relieve an individual of his or her obligation to file a return and pay the tax on time—on or before March 15, if filed on a calendar year basis. Forms 1040A for returns of income of $5,000 and less and 1040 for returns of income in excess of $5,000 may be obtained at the office of Collector of Internal Revenue, Louisville, Ky., and the following branch offices:

- Lexington, Kentucky.
- Covington, Kentucky.
- Ashland, Kentucky.
- Owensboro, Kentucky.
- Paducah, Kentucky.

FLAMES CAUSE DEATH OF BLANCHESTER CITIZEN

Coal Oil Placed Upon Fire Explodes and Clothing Ignites—Dies Despite Efforts of Bystanders.

Last week T. A. Williamson, well known Blanchester business man, came to his death under most distressing circumstances. He was engaged in the feed and coal business there and was conferring with a traveling salesman, when he noticed that the fire in a stove was out. He threw coal oil on the embers, and, since they failed to ignite, he repeated the act. An explosion followed with burning oil. The salesman threw an overcoat about him, but frenzied by pain, the merchant pulled away and ran into the street. His cries brought assistance and the flames were extinguished. Efforts to relieve his agony were without avail, and, at length, death resulted. Mr. Williamson was a 32nd degree Mason and had served his town many times as a councilman and as a member of the board of public affairs.

ALLEGED MOON-SHINER TO BE GIVEN ANOTHER HEARING

Colored Woman Charged With Manufacturing Moonshine Liquor Employs Counsel and Says She Did Not Understand.

Maggie Robinson, colored woman, given a preliminary hearing before Police Judge Harry C. Curran Friday afternoon and who was held for Grand Jury investigation, is to be given another trial in City Court on Monday afternoon.

On Saturday the woman retained Attorney A. D. Cole to represent her and stated that she did not understand the procedure in City Court on Friday afternoon when she was arraigned and entered a plea of guilty upon which Judge Curran held her for the Grand Jury.

Attorney Cole today made a motion for a new trial, explaining that his defendant did not understand the matter when she entered a plea of guilty.

Judge Curran granted the new trial and brought the woman into court Saturday afternoon but Mr. Cole was unable to be in court and the second hearing was set for Monday afternoon. In court Saturday afternoon the colored woman stated that while the still was found in her home, it was not her property and she was not operating it but it belonged to a colored man who has made his escape.

Judge Curran has continued the bond at $1,000 which the defendant has been unable thus far to give and she is held in jail.

NEW BASIS FOR FIXING VALUES OF KY. CREAM

New System Expected to Be Adopted For the Grading of Cream—Old System Has Proven Itself to Be Quite Unfair.

Lexington, Ky., March 3.—After plans of creameries in Kentucky to buy cream on a quality basis instead of paying a flat rate for all grades are expected to be developed rapidly in other counties of the State, according to a report on the project. Creameries in Mercer and Mason counties already are paying for cream on the basis of its quality while cream station operators in a number of other counties are being instructed in the grading of cream and notified to pay more for good quality products.

The cream grading movement is the result of an increasing demand from manufacturers for a better grade of cream. In an effort to remedy the situation in its own locality, one Louisville firm started a plan to pay eight cents more a pound for butterfat in sweet cream than is being paid for that in cream of average quality. So much low grade cream has been marketed in Kentucky that the markets are over crowded with a low score butter for which there is little demand and for which a low price is paid.

Suggestions to farmers on recommended dairy practices and the care of cream before it is marketed are being sent out by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station in order to help farmers meet the demands for a better grade of cream. The producer who exercises reasonable care to see that the fanks and udders of his cows are cleaned at milking time, that all buckets, cans and containers are washed and scalded before being used, that his cream is cooled immediately after milking and kept cool, and who delivers his product at least three times a week in warm weather and twice a week during the winter months will have little difficulty in producing a good grade of cream, the station dairymen say.

The best cream will be sweet or only slightly sour, will be smooth and clean, have a clean taste and be free from all undesirable flavors and odors. Farmers can improve their cream by studying their own conditions and remedying those that contribute toward the production of low quality products, the dairymen say.

GERMAN CHURCH TO BECOME NEW HOME OF CITY MISSION

Local German Lutheran Congregation to Turn Their Building Over to City Mission For Use as Mission Home.

Arrangements are being completed by the trustees of the local German Lutheran Church and the Board of Directors of the Maysville City Mission to turn the church's property in West Second street adjoining the plant of the Maysville Cotton Mills, over to the City Mission for use as a Mission Home.

The local Lutheran congregation has almost been wiped out by death, there remaining only a score or so and for sometime there has been no regular services at the local church.

It is understood that by the terms of the agreement between the church and the Mission the Lutheran congregation retains the right to hold occasional services in the building. The Mission will be given the right to use and occupy the building as a Mission home for the expense of keeping the property in good repair.

This is an ideal location for the Mission Home which is compelled to move because of the recent sale of the Central Presbyterian church property to the local Knights of Columbus.

C. & O. DEPOT AT NEWPORT IS ROBBED

Masked Bandits Rob C. & O. Station Agent and Cash Drawer Friday Night.

"I thought they were joking when they came into the station with handkerchiefs partly concealing their faces," said Henry Ebert, Jr., ticket agent of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad station in Newport, Ky., in discussing a daring hold-up Friday night.

One of the robbers had a red handkerchief on his face, while the other used a blue handkerchief as a mask. "Hold up your hands!" said one of the men to Ebert, who was seated in the office.

"Quit your kidding!" he replied. A second command, however, caused Ebert to quickly raise his hands pointed at his head.

The robbers then ordered him to stand with his back against the wall, while they went through his pockets. They took his watch and fob, a small amount of money, and examined his rings on his hand.

Seventy-five dollars in money was taken from the cash drawer.

REPRESENTATIVE GETS FIRST BILL THRU IN TWO YEARS

Legislator From Nicholas and Robertson Counties Offers Bill to Have Bees Inspected.

Frankfort, Ky., March 4.—If all the members of the Kentucky Legislature were like Representative S. H. Moore of Piqua, who represents Nicholas and Robertson counties, it wouldn't be necessary to slap on a cloture rule for the last ten or twenty days to help the members find their way around in an avalanche of bills.

This is Mr. Moore's second session in the Legislature. He served in 1918 and in 1922, when it was Robertson's time, his people sent him back again.

His distinction is that throughout his legislative history he has introduced but two bills and made but one speech. His having average on getting bills passed is .500, one of the measures having been killed in a committee. That was not a bill he cared much about, though, he said. He merely introduced it as a favor to his Senator, R. F. Reynolds.

The other bill was passed today. It was a bill providing for inspection of bees or the purpose of preventing contagious diseases among them, and went over by a vote of 52 to 11.

Mr. Moore made his first speech in favor of it and impressed his fellow Representatives so well that half of them explained their favorable votes with compliments to him.

Mr. Moore, however, does not neglect his duties as a legislator, for he reads every bill and makes up his mind as to how he will vote, basing his decision on the merits of the case. Then it is hard to change him.

CLAIMS BEING SETTLED FOR OIL REFINING CO.

Expect to Reach Agreement and Have Receiver Dismissed in Short Time—To Complete Plant Soon.

Columbus, Ind., March 3.—Officers of the Indiana Oil Refining Corporation, which was placed in the hands of a receiver last December, following failure to meet about $20,000 in claims against it, expect the receiver to be discharged within a few days.

Nearly all the claims filed in the Bartholomew county circuit court against the company have been dismissed through lack of prosecution or settlement outside court. When all claims have been dismissed Judge John W. Donaker will be asked to dismiss the receiver. After this action is taken, the officials say, construction on the half-completed refinery of the company near here will be resumed.

13 KILLED AS FLIER STRIKES CROWDED BUS

Many Injured and Thirteen Killed When New York Central Train Strikes Bus in Ohio Town Late Friday Evening.

Cleveland, March 3.—Thirteen persons were killed and approximately a dozen injured, four perhaps fatally, late tonight when New York Central Express train No. 600, eastbound, crashed into a bus at the St. Clair street crossing in Painesville.

The wreckage later caught fire when the gas tank of the bus exploded.

Only five of the dead were identified at a late hour. All are believed to have been residents of Painesville and Fairport, between which cities the bus operated.

Dead and dying were hurled along the railroad right of way for several hundred feet, and bodies of three of the victims were found lodged on the locomotive pilot when the train was brought from a sixty-mile-an-hour speed to a halt, 400 yards from the scene of the collision.

According to railroad officials here, New York Central Train No. 2, westbound, crashed into the wreckage.

Eleven of the dead were taken to morgues at Painesville, and it is understood two bodies were taken to Fairport.

The motor bus had just left its stand at Main and St. Clair streets, Painesville, for its last trip of the night. Half a dozen of its passengers, residents of Fairport, were on their way home from a lodge meeting.

OUR POLICY:

To support such measures as are unquestionably for the good of Mason County as an entire community, rather than such propositions as are in favor of the individual interest, or of one section as against another. And likewise to earnestly and consistently oppose all things that are not for the good of the county as a whole.

SATISFYING BOTH SIDES

The decision of one of the largest traction companies in Kansas, at the suggestion of its employees, to discontinue boards of arbitration and to submit all disputed questions to the Court of Industrial Relations, is one of the most convincing proofs of the success of the new judicial body created by Governor Allen and at the same time an effective answer to the criticisms of Samuel Gompers.

Information as to the works of this novel court created under the Kansas law is needed in those Eastern States that have under consideration the stopping of strikes which interfere with the production and distribution of such necessary commodities as coal and food-stuffs. Radical agitators are persistent in declaring the court a failure and in spreading propaganda about the "industrial slavery" it creates; facts are ignored by the reds and their sympathizers; the campaign against the new tribunal is based entirely upon misrepresentation.

During the year and ten months since the establishment of the court thirty-four decisions affecting wages and working conditions have been made. Of these, thirty-three have been accepted by employers and employees as "just and equitable;" this assuredly does not indicate dissatisfaction with the court, or with the provision of the law forbidding strikes in any essential industry. The experience of the Joplin, Pittsburgh and Galena Railroad Company and its employees gives in particular an idea of the esteem in which the law is held by both sides. During the war the company suffered three costly strikes which brought the men no increases in wages or other benefits. When the industrial court was created the men petitioned for wages having a proper relation to living costs. After careful investigation the court found that an increase was warranted, and the decision was in favor of the men and the company. A year later the company appeared before the court and asked for a lower wage scale; on the ground that commodity prices had gone down. The decision was in favor of the company, the cuts ordered varying from six to ten cents an hour. The men offered no objection, for they realized that the findings of the court were based upon hard facts. But this is not all the testimony showing the general appreciation of the law and the court.

A few months after the second decision, when the traction company and its employees took up the subject of a new contract, the customary provisions for arbitration were omitted at the suggestion of the labor delegates that they should "leave out all that stuff," and refer all future controversies to the Court of Industrial Relations. The vote on the substitute proposition was unanimous. So unusual an endorsement is an effective answer to agitators who are denouncing the Kansas way of preventing strikes.

The strong point of the Kansas plan is that the court is not one of arbitration. Its decisions rest upon the evidence and do not favor one party at the expense of the other. The usual trouble with labor boards and commissions is that they follow the illogical rule of splitting the difference, so that exact justice cannot be had. The record of the Kansas court cannot be rehearsed too often in the Eastern States which are striving earnestly for a solution of their perplexing labor problems.—Providence Journal.

LINCOLN VIEW STILL GOOD

The practical effect of a protective tariff was probably never better described in a few words than was stated in a speech by Abraham Lincoln, one of the founders of the Republican party, which became the leading exponent of the protective principle. As Lincoln said, if we buy goods manufactured in foreign countries we have the goods and the other country has the money; whereas, if we buy goods produced in America we have both the goods and the money.

This is a proposition so manifestly true and so clearly important that it can not fail to impress the mind of anyone who seriously considers the tariff question from the standpoint of the best interests of our own country. Wealth is not measured in money alone. The happiness and comfort and prosperity of a nation can not be determined by the amount of money it has in its possession. But property, particularly goods subject to consumption, together with the money with which to buy other goods when needed, indicate very accurately the condition of a nation from an economic standpoint.

If we adopt and continue the Lincoln policy—that Republican policy—of buying goods produced in America, so that we shall have both the goods and the money, there can be no doubt whatever of our attaining the highest possible degree of business prosperity and individual comfort and happiness.

The great difficulty is that if each person is left to act in accordance with his own selfish interests on each separate purchase, each will endeavor to buy where he can buy the cheapest. The manufacturer desiring hides, for instance, will buy them in Mexico or South America if he can get them cheaper than in America. The buyer of a razor will buy one made in Germany if he can get it for less money than one made in America. The buyer of grain for the manufacture of flour will buy it in Canada if he can get it for a few cents less per bushel than it will cost him if bought from the American farmer. Illustrations of this kind could be multiplied indefinitely.

There has never been discovered or devised any practicable method by which purchase of home-made commodities could be induced except by the imposition of an import tax which will represent at least the difference in cost of production here and abroad, thus removing the incentive to buy the foreign-made article. If the import tax represents the difference in cost of production, the American producer will be able to sell at practically the same price that must be charged by the importer, with the result that the American consumer will choose to buy the commodity made in America.

By thus encouraging patronage of home industry, we establish in practice the general rule of keeping both the goods and the money, buying abroad only those commodities which we either can not produce at all or which we produce at a very serious disadvantage. There are many commodities of this kind, such as coffee, tea, silk, tropical fruits, a few minerals and chemicals, precious stones, etc. The more we purchase of home-produced commodities the more money we shall have to spend for those articles of luxury or necessity which we can not produce here and which other nations will be glad to sell to us because they can not consume all they produce themselves.

The Confederate guerrilla leader, Commercial airplanes in the United States flew 3,500,000 miles in the last six months at a cost of 15 killed and 43 injured.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, —(Special Correspondence) — Secretary of War Weeks has asked Congress for a lump appropriation for the upkeep of the army for the ensuing fiscal year. He promises that record economies will be inaugurated if his request is granted. Lump sum appropriations were frequent during the war period, and while the Democratic Congress was in control. Their evils were due to the extravagance of their administration rather than to the appropriations themselves. In the hands of an efficient executive department a lump sum allotment can be used far more economically than can specific appropriations. In the course of a fiscal year it often happens that the limitations of appropriation bills hamper the efficient functioning of the department, while preventing the application of unused surpluses in one branch from being utilized in another. The record made by President Harding and his Cabinet officers in cutting down the expenses of Federal administration should convince Congress that there can be no danger, and may be great savings, in turning over to Secretary Weeks the sums that he asks.

The House of Representatives has passed a resolution extending until June, 1923, the provisions of the present immigration law that limits immigration from any one country to three per cent. of its nationals resident in the United States in the census of 1910. Had the resolution not been passed the law would have expired on June 30th of this year, as it was admittedly but a temporary measure. In all probability the resolution will receive the approval of the Senate, inasmuch as the law itself originated in that body. In presenting the matter to his colleagues, Congressman Johnson, of Washington, chairman of the Immigration Committee, declared that the American people would never return again to the free immigration of past years. During the eight months the law has been on the statute books 192,000 immigrants have come to the United States. The indications are that the limit of 355,000 permitted by the act will not be reached when the year is ended. The immigration committee intends to proceed to the preparation of a permanent immigration law at an early date, but there is not time for its enactment before the expiration of the present statute, hence the continuing resolution became necessary.

Practically the entire merchant marine fleet owned by the Government is being offered for sale by the Shipping Board. Steel cargo and passenger vessels and tankers from 2,800 tons to 20,000 are on the market and bids are invited. On March 14 the bids will be opened and negotiations may be continued thereafter. The board reserves the right to reject any or all bids, which means that the ships will not be disposed of for substantially less than their worth.

The policy of the board is in line with Republican policies generally, that of divorcing the Government from engaging in business that should be conducted by private interests. It is the wish of President Harding, Chairman Lasker, and the Republican Congress that the Government divorce itself from the business of operating ships at the earliest date consistent with the profitable disposal of the huge properties now under its control.

LITTLE SERMONS ON THRIFT.

A. W. Atwood, in the Saturday Evening Post: "If all the employees of the United States Steel Corporation should save $2 per week and put it into stock of the company, they would own controlling interest within ten years."

David Lloyd-George, the British prime minister, in House of Commons: "The only saving that will help the government substantially is the saving of individuals, the saving of families, the saving of the man who had an income in any shape or form. The savings of the people are at the present moment vital to the success of this country, and the man who cuts down unnecessary expenditure is contributing something material and important to the success of the country."

E. F. Mack, Central Trust Co., Chicago: "A man who has children can leave them no better legacy than the savings habit, formed through years of factual practice, for such a habit, coupled with honesty, industry, and courtesy, will insure the business success of any child later in life."

Col. William Boyce Thompson, former director of the New York Federal Reserve bank and member of the advisory committee of the Conference on the Limitation of Armament: "Young man, if you had a cramp in your pocketbook, there is something wrong with you and you should see a good doctor. I know of no better one than the Treasury Department of the United States Government. If you have his prescription for Treasury Savings Securities filled, and take them regularly, you will soon find yourself cured."

Charles M. Galloway, former President of the United States Civil Service Commission says: "I know of no greater service the Government could render the public than the one the Treasury Department is undertaking. I regard Treasury Savings Securities as the safest and therefore the best possible means of investing money. While there are other investments that offer a larger rate of interest, there is also a greater risk. There is no experiment in putting money into any United States Government security; the element of risk disappears because everything there is in this land is behind a Government security."

STUDY OF CONSTITUTION IS SOUGHT BY LEAGUE

All States To Be Urged To Require All Schools To Teach Fundamental Law of Nation.

Washington. — Government officials are much interested in the campaign started by the National Security League of New York looking to the passage of laws by 44 states requiring that a study of the Constitution of the United States be required of students in all schools.

Four states—Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and Vermont—now have such a law. Two hundred of the country's leading educators, it is said, are back of the movement, which it is expected will require several years to push to conclusion.

Officials of the Bureau of Education express the hope that such state laws, when passed, will not require any special form of study of the Constitution, but point out that the practice of some schools which now teach it, of requiring scholars to learn it by heart, is apt to do more harm than good. They say that it is the meaning, not the wording, which is important, and that it is the duty of the Supreme Court, not the individual, to interpret the phraseology. If the average student is required to study it from the standpoint of understanding its principles he will, they point out, be much more likely to use his knowledge than if required merely to learn it word for word.

WORK THAT TELLS

Plenty of It Has Been Done Right Here in Maysville.

To thoroughly know the virtues of a medicine you must investigate its work. Doan's Kidney Pills stand this test, and plenty of proof exists right here in Maysville. People who testified years ago to relief from backache, rheumatism and urinary disorders, now give confirmed testimony—declare the results have lasted. How can any Maysville sufferer longer doubt the evidence?

Mrs. W. A. Schatzmann, 605 East Second street, Maysville, gave the following statement November 15, 1916: "From the benefit I have derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills I have every reason to recommend them to anyone. Whenever my kidneys have been irregular in action or I have suffered with a weakness or lameness through the small of my back I have used a box or so of Doan's and they have always proven sufficient to cure the complaint quickly."

On November 22, 1920, Mrs. Schatzmann said: "Doan's Kidney Pills certainly do all that is claimed for them. I recommend them again as I did before when I publicly endorsed them in 1916. Doan's have made a lasting cure for me."

TIMOTHY*New York Letter

by Lucy Jeanne Price

New York — George Washington's gold watch was sold at a New York art gallery on the recent anniversary of his birth for $3,200. It was one of many personal relics belonging principally to W. Lanier Washington, a great-great-nephew, which brought a total of $19,952 at the sale. The watch which is certified as being one of the two possessed by General Washington in his latter life, was made in France in 1790. It is of 18-karat gold, with his crest engraved on the back, and has a calendar attachment.

—NY—
If you drop into a New York place of business and are dazzled at the showing of jewelry on secretaries, stenographers and 90 per cent of the business women, don't set it down to poor taste of "this awful generation." It is just caution. Girls and women who own any jewelry at all are wearing it all wherever they may be. If they don't they are liable never to see it again. Daylight burglars have been too successful in ransacking apartments lately to give peace of mind to anyone except those who keep their valuables always within sight.

—NY—
Co-operative shopping is becoming fashionable in Little Old New York. For some years past, neighborhoods have banded together to purchase staple supplies in large quantities. Hitherto these enterprises have nearly always concerned themselves only with fuel and food. Now, however, all necessities are included through shopping bureaus attached to various organizations. One of the most important of these is that of the Hotel Commonwealth which has more than 27,000 members and with which at least 250 important stores are cooperating. The owner-members of the hotel, which is being built at Broadway and 56th and 57th streets, all benefit by the shopping bureau and during the last year have received rebates amounting to several hundred thousand dollars, by the process of turning their sales slips to the office and receiving rebates on their purchases up to 20%. The Commonwealth company receives rebates from the stores, the volume of business is increased, and everyone is happy.

—NY—
I have heard of business blocks and real estate being tied up in unsettled estates so as to be useless to anyone; but I never before realized that church pews might suffer that fate. St. Bartholomew's Episcopal church at Park Avenue and Fifth street, however, has pews which have been occupied for twenty years because of just such a condition. Many of them were purchased outright by persons now dead whose offspring are not members of the church. The deeds to the pews are tied up in the estates. Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks, the rector has consequently requested the return to the church of all unused pews. Among the first to return theirs were Mrs. Vanderbilt, the estate of George W. Vanderbilt, Frank J. Gould and Mrs. Oliver Harriman. In a few cases, said Dr. Parks, the owners had refused to make the return. It is expected that the situation will result in abolishing the system of selling pews outright.

—NY—
"For Goodness Sake" is the latest musical comedy to open here and it is one of the season's best. It is truly musical, funny, with exceptionally good dancing, and even a plot! Some of the comedy is actually hilarious, and the talent features in the production makes it even better than it might otherwise be. It is a three Lyric theater.

—NY—
It might very properly have been the life insurance companies which prevented the holding of the bullfight scheduled for Madison Square Garden rather than the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, as things turned out. When the bull fight was called off for the Garden. It was arranged for a carnival just across the river in New Jersey. It was to be a "mock" bullfight—in order not to seem cruel to animals, you see. Well, Charlot Molina, Spanish matador, knew it was to be "mock"; so did the pleaders and all the rest of the assemblage—except the bull. He didn't understand the "mock" par. And he was a Texas steer! Consequently, before any excitement had a chance to develop the bull tossed the torero lightly over the fence and looked around for anyone else who chose to contest his championship, or to think there was going to be any "cruelty to animals" so far as he was concerned.

Corn will continue king of farm products, it will continue king of feeding grains, but to get the greatest number of meat pounds in return for corn pounds fed it must be supplemented, not because it is inferior to other grains in protein content but because it is low in its mineral content.—Neil B. Jones.

AGED CARTER MAN BURNED TO DEATH SEATED IN CHAIR

Fire Pops Onto Blanket Draped About Invalid and He Is Burned To Death Before Assistance Could Reach Him.

The Carter County Herald says: Wm. Pickelsimer, aged 82 years, met death in his home at Huff's Run, near Reedville, in this county last Thursday afternoon by being burned to death in his chair. It seems that the husband and wife who lived there together were very feeble and he had been an invalid for many years, and she had left him tied in his chair in front of the fire with a blanket around him and gone to a neighbor's house on an errand, and during her stay fire caught into his clothing or the blanket around him, and the house was burned down around, a large log house. The smoke was discovered by Wm. Parsons, one of his nearest neighbors, and he ran to the house and went into the room where he always had stayed and that day they had changed him into another room, and when he discovered it he ran to the door and found it locked, he burst it down and entered to find his chair and all his clothing around him to be on fire, and he grabbed the chair and when he did it fell to pieces, having been burned to such an extent that it would not bear moving. He had to at once leave the room to escape death himself.

WORLD'S LARGEST HOTEL TO BE BUILT IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, March 3. — Plans for the world's largest hotel, to contain 3,000 guest rooms and to be built on Michigan Boulevard at a cost of more than $12,000,000, were announced here today.

The announcement followed the sale of a block of land for $2,500,000 on which the new hotel, to be known as the Stevens, will be built. Construction, it was said, will start soon after May 1.

James W. Stevens, President of the LaSalle Hotel Company, who made the announcement, said that the hotel would be twenty-five stories high. It will have a convention hall to accommodate 4,000 persons.

WOMAN COULD NOT WORK

Made Strong and Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Paul, Minn.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a tired, worn-out feeling and painful periods. I used to get up with a pain in my head and pain in my lower back and back. Often I was not able to do my work. I read in your little book about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have taken it. I feel so well and strong and can do every bit of my work and not a pain in my back now. I recommend your medicine and you can use this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. PHIL. MASER, 801 Winslow St., St. Paul, Minn.

Just another case where a woman found relief by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Many times these tired, worn-out feelings and pains about the body are from troubles only women have. The Vegetable Compound is especially adapted for just this condition. The good results are noted by the disagreeable symptoms passing away—one after another.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a Woman's Medicine for Women's Ailments. Always reliable.

PRUNED GRAPE VINES GIVE HEAVIER YIELD

Pruning grape vines helps to keep them within the desired bounds as well as encourage the growth of more fruit and larger bunches and berries, recommendations being made by horticulturists at the College of Agriculture point out. It is desirable to prune as soon as possible before the vines begin to bleed heavily although it is a recognized fact that bleeding does not prove particularly harmful.

While grape pruning may be considered severe, it is well to remember that no fruit is grown except on shoots coming from buds on last year's growth, the specialists say. Growers who are not following a definite system for training their vines will do well to prune them back to two buds which will mean that about three-fourths of the past season's growth will be cut away.

Any grower who is following one of the seven or eight systems of training the vines can get specific directions for his particular one by writing the Experiment Station at Lexington.
